Shelly,

Thanks for the map, photographs, and for setting us up for sharing documents. I was able to register and login to view the document sharing portal. That should work well for sharing files, especially large ones. Have a good day.

Attached is a map showing sample locations, including one location on a residential property. Also attached are pictures of the drum found at that location and fused glass found in a nearby waste pile.

I created a website where we can share documents - www.epaosc.org/kokomodts. The website has exclusive security so the only individuals who can see the site are those that I given rights to. In order to see the site and load documents to it, you will need to register by going to www.epaosc.org. Click "Login" in the upper right. Click "Register here" and then enter your information. You must use your sescogroup.com e-mail address when you register. Once you receive your password, you can access the document transfer site.

Let me know if you have any questions.
